

Europe votes 2019: How to unmask and fight online manipulation

11 February 2019 | 9:30 - 17:15

Résidence Palace, Rue de la Loi 175, Brussels

With the European Parliament elections in May this year, and numerous other national elections in EU Member States scheduled for 2019, the EDPS is facilitating a conversation between data protection authorities, electoral regulators, audio-visual regulators, media and platforms in the fight against online manipulation and abuse personal data in political campaigning.

9:30 – 9:45 Digital information ecosystem, data protection and democracy - opening remarks from Giovanni Buttarelli, EDPS

9:45 - 10:15 "How to fake your own news" - Demonstration by Ruurd Oosterwoud, DROG

DROG is a platform with innovative tools to build resistance to online manipulation; "Bad News" - a game which raises awareness of how fake news is generated and spread

10:15 - 11:30 Reflections of 2018 elections

Looking back on the elections that took place last year, experts from Brazil, France Ireland and Latvia, will look back on digital dimension of these elections and the lessons we can learn.

1. Liz Carolan, Co-Founder, Transparent Referendum Initiative
2. Fabro Steibel, Director, ITS-Rio
3. Iveta Kazoka, Director of Centre of Public Policy, PROVIDUS
4. Judith Duportail, Freelance Journalist

11:45 - 12:45 Digital vulnerabilities 2019

Fair and free elections are the cornerstone of democracy but their integrity is being challenged in the highly concentrated and often unaccountable digital ecosystem. This panel will highlight the vulnerabilities in our democratic process from various perspectives.

1. Claudio Agosti, Director & Project Lead, tracking.exposed
2. David Stillwell, Lecturer in Big Data Analytics, University of Cambridge
3. Johnny Ryan, Chief Policy and Industry Relations Officer, BRAVE
4. (tbc) Vidya Narayanan, Director, Computational Propaganda Project, University of Oxford

12:45 - 13:00 Keynote by Elizabeth Denham, Information Commissioner, UK

14:00 - 15:30 Roles and Responsibilities

A multisectoral dialogue with regulators, as well as representatives from the media, journalism and the platform industry, revolving around the roles they play and responsibilities they all hold in fighting online manipulation of data.

- 1. Mar España Martí, Commissioner, Agencia Española de Protección de Datos
- 2. Jean Gonié, Director of Public Policy Europe, Snap Inc.
- 3. Marco Pancini, YouTube
- 4. (tbc) Rona Petri Kapassi, President, Cyprus Radio Television Authority

15:45 - 17:00 Opportunities for cooperation

Strengthening data protection is essential but combatting online manipulation and preserving the integrity of democracy requires concerted effort between all stakeholders, accountability and new networks of cooperation.

- 1. Natalija Bitiukova, Civil Liberties for Europe
- 2. Marie-Hélène Boulanger, DG Justice, European Commission
- 3. Maurice Turner, Center for Democracy and Technology
- 4. (tbc) Maria Luisa Stasi, Article 19

17.00 Closing remarks